TEACHING ACTIVITIES

Spring 2020, Mentored faculty experience, NRS 937, Proposal Development in Health Sciences. Co-teaching with guidance from course coordinator. Responsible for developing lecture materials for 3 classes including incorporating active learning strategies. Review, assess, and provide ongoing feedback to students including grant proposals, response to reviewer feedback, and peer critiques.

Fall 2019, Mentored faculty experience, CTR/NRS 928, Translational and Interdisciplinary Outcomes Research. Co-teaching with guidance from course coordinator. Responsible for developing lecture materials for 3 classes including incorporating active learning strategies. Review and assess student assignments including discussion boards and proposals.

2012-2017, Adjunct Clinical Faculty, DeSales University. Supervised clinical nursing experiences in Maternal/Child Health for traditional undergraduate and accelerated BSN students and oversaw practicum experiences for senior nursing students in the final semester.

Fall 2015, Completed Graduate Student Online Teaching Certificate at Penn State University. Noncredit certificate program with objectives focused on best practices and competencies in online curriculum delivery and learning.

Spring 2016, Teaching with Faculty at Penn State College of Nursing. Mentored teaching experience for credit, served as a co-instructor of NURS200W, Principles of Nursing Research and Evidence-Based Practice. The course was redesigned during my experience and transitioned from Blackboard to Canvas online learning environment. I developed course materials, including lectures on quantitative and qualitative methods, and mentored five students through their final evidence-based practice project.
